

The applicant hereby declares,

1. not to use the facilities of the PC laboratory (incl. Linux server) for non-university purposes¹ without the explicit consent of the Institute for Theoretical Physics (Prof. Ernst, Prof. Kramer, Prof. Renger).
2. not to install any programs on the computers.
3. to follow the provisions of the General Data Protection Regulation.
4. not to make his/her login credentials available to other persons.
5. not to allow any other persons access to the PC lab and, if necessary, to lock the PC lab.
6. not to process any data containing illegal content.
7. to voluntarily free the PC workplaces for participants of courses, if there is apparent need for it.
8. not to consume food or drinks in the PC lab.

The Institute for Theoretical Physics states that,

1. the computer workstations are a voluntary service for students of physics. Accordingly, careful handling of the institute's facilities and a willingness to cooperate are required.
2. the availability of the service can not be guaranteed.
3. his/her login credentials and all data will be deleted if he/she
 - (1) completed his/her studies or
 - (2) after the end of the course or
 - (3) if the account is not used.
4. the institute does not guarantee the backup of the user data. All users are therefore responsible for backing up their own data.

Failure to comply with the above points may result in legal and financial consequences for the applicant. In any case, the login credentials will be revoked.

The applicant hereby declares to agree to the electronic processing and storage of his/her data for the purpose of user administration. Monitoring software is installed to allow course lecturers and administrators to access the computers.
